1934 Buick Top Project

SCPI design and production heads Ron Grace and Tim McGinnis began the new year with a custom design of top irons for a 1934 Buick 4-door convertible sedan. Owned by Patrick McGee, New York, the Buick project is a restoration of an original car with some modernization of components. SCPI will custom design and handcraft stainless steel folding top irons, stanchion posts, and the windshield for the car. Illinois company Gray's Garage, who is doing the majority of the restoration, will install the canvas.

See Ron and Tim discussing the Buick project on video on the Superior Car Parts Inc Facebook page or our YouTube site. More pictures of the Buick are also online on Facebook.com. Access these sites through www.superiorcarpartsinc.com.

In addition to manufacturing car parts and top irons for early model Ford "open cars," Superior Car Parts Inc has become the premier site for owners to ship their cars for a truly custom fabrication of a fully-functional top. Last year Superior Car Parts Inc introduced its new custom-made 3" chopped Folding Top with 3" stanchion posts for a 1932 Ford Roadster. Rodders wanted a roadster look with foldability. This top allows the rodder to enjoy the ride regardless of the weather.
